

30 CHAUFFEURS SENT TO JAIL FOR TRAFFIC VIOLATION

108 Speeders in 233 Cases
Tried in Court — Fines
Amount to $2,702.

Jail sentences of from three to ten days were imposed to-day in the Traffic Court on thirty chauffeurs in default of paying their fines. In all, 233 cases were heard. There were 107 speeders as first offenders and one second offender. Magistrates Cobb and Sims presided. The fines amounted to $2,702.

Among those who paid fines was Cleveland E. Dodge, thirty-four, Riverdale Avenue, the Bronx. He was haled into court on a summons by Motorcycle Patrolman George F. Bailey, who charged that on June 18 Dodge drove his car in St. Nicholas Avenue between 155th and 158th Streets at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour. He was fined $25.

Richard Lazavio, twenty-four, a chauffeur, No. 2141 Broadway, was a second offender for speeding. He was given five days in the City Prison. Daniel McElweary, twenty-six, No. 94 Farrington Street, Flushing, was charged with speeding at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour on Riverside Drive between 97th Street and 100th Streets. When arrested by Patrolman James Gunshannon and asked for his driver's license he said he had left it at home. He told this to Magistrate Sims to-day. The Automobile Bureau was telephoned and said McElweary had failed to obtain a 1922 license. He was fined $25 for speeding and given five days in the City Prison for operating an automobile without a license.

Town in Terror Of Weird Airman Who Flies Low

Woman Rushes Into Stranger's House at Night to Avoid Being Hit.

For a long time complaints have been coming in at Police Headquarters, North Bergen, N. J., about an aviator who flies his plane through the streets, below the roof levels, and frightens women almost out of their senses. One woman said that the flyer came down so low one night recently that she was compelled to run into a strange man's house to avoid being struck. Other women said they were afraid to go out of nights.

It was not until to-day that a definite aviator was brought to book for flying about North Bergen, and he was arraigned before Recorder Niles. He is Edward L. Taylor, of No. 8 First Street, Weehawken. Rosario Nizzo, owner of what is known as the Homestead Ash Lot, a public dumping ground in the town, charged that Taylor alighted in the lot last Sunday night.

Taylor admitted this, but said it was because he had but one alternative, to alight in a swamp and probably lose his life. He denied he had flown low over the town or down any of the streets and Recorder Niles dismissed him. Now the town is waiting to see whether the low-flyer shows up again.

SHOPLIFTERS USE BABY TO HIDE LOOT

Couple Confess Concealing Goods Stolen in Store in Long Dress.

With her seven-months-old baby in her arms, the long dress having been used to hide stolen goods, Mrs. Filomena Pacecca, nineteen, and her husband, Cosimo, twenty-seven, pleaded guilty to-day in the Adams Street Court, Brooklyn, on a charge of shoplifting and were held in $300 bail each for trial in the Court of Special Sessions.

Rose Murray, detective of a department store in Fulton Street, said the couple wandering from counter to counter yesterday. The father was carrying the baby and every once in a while a stop was made and something placed under the long dress of the baby.

Miss Murray caused their arrest. When the baby's clothing was searched, it is alleged, fifteen pairs of socks, three pairs of silk stockings, a necktie and a pair of bloomers were found.

She is the daughter of Joseph H. Briery. The ceremony will take place to-morrow at St. George's Church, in East 16th Street.

School Pupils at City Hall Plaza Hear Mayor Talk on Cleanliness

Three hundred schoolgirls and two hundred boys visited City Hall Plaza in sightseeing buses to-day and were addressed by Mayor Hylan. The children are members of the Junior Civic League of the Department of Street Cleaning, headed by Reuben Simon.

The girls were from Public School No. 38, Dominick and Clarke Streets, and were in charge of Margaret Alt-ken, Principal, and under the direction of Miss Mary Rowan. The boys were from Public School No. 97, Mangin Street, near Stanton, and were in charge of Morris L. Cohen.

It was explained to the Mayor that all the children are members of a league that not only practises and preaches the gospel of cleanliness on the streets and in the home, but that the boys and girls are missionaries in the cause of civic advancement.

Mayor Hylan left a delegation of Washington officials looking for a new Federal building site long enough to address the children. He thanked them for their aid in keeping the city clean and told them he was always glad to meet them and talk with them. The children waved flags, sang patriotic songs and gave several class yells.

WINS $20,000,000 GAS ROYALTY SUIT

Plainfield Man Backed Inventor of Refining Process.

Royalties estimated at $20,000,000 and part control of a gasoline refining process hitherto used exclusively by the Texas Company are involved in a suit won here yesterday by George T. Rogers, in which he was said to be backed by the Standard Oil Company.

Reciting that in 1907 he had advanced to George A. Adams, an inventor, $5,000 to develop the refining process, Mr. Rogers produced a contract by the terms of which he was to share a 40 per cent. interest in the process. The Texas Company contended it bought the process from Mr. Adams in the belief that it was acquiring full title.

In handing down his decision yesterday, Supreme Court Justice McAvoy held that a reasonable inquiry by the company would have disclosed Mr. Rogers' interest in the process. The company was ordered to turn over to Mr. Rogers his share of the approximately $20,000,000 royalties that have accrued since the company bought the patents of the process. Mr. Rogers' share is estimated at $8,000,000.

Mr. Rogers, a retired wholesale coal dealer, lives in Plainfield, N. J.

SUN'S LIEUTENANTS JOIN GEN. CHIUNG

Deposed Leader Said to Be Recruiting Army From Among Bandits.

AMOY, China, June 28 (Associated Press).—Military leaders of Kwang-si Province, previously adherents of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, have cast their lot with Gen. Chiang Ming, according to advices received here from Canton. Information available here does not clearly reveal the plans of Sun Yat Sen, who apparently still hopes to regain control of Canton and re-establish his power as President of a South China Government. One report says Dr. Sun from his headquarters at Whampoa, near Canton, is trying to recruit a new army among bandits and the remnants of his own and other provincial forces.

EDISON OFFICIAL FREED IN INTOXICATION CHARGE

John W. Robinson Denies Allegation, but Admits Highball. John W. Robinson of No. 19 North Maple Avenue, East Orange, N. J., Secretary of the Thomas A. Edison Companies, was freed by Recorder Ellis in the Police Court to-day when arraigned on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. Policeman Cohra arrested Robinson on June 13 and testified he noticed the odor of liquor on the prisoner's breath. Dr. R. J. Potter gave similar testimony, but would not say to what extent he thought Robinson had been drinking. Robinson emphatically denied the charge, admitting, however, that he had a high ball three hours before he was arrested.

MOTHER MUST SUE IN ANOTHER STATE FOR SON'S CUSTODY

Jersey Divorcee Denied Application in Home State for Boy.

Mrs. Queenie Morley, of No. 23 Artye Place, Kearny, N. J., was denied her application for the custody of her four-year-old son, Theodore B., to-day by Vice Chancellor Foster in Newark. She contended that the courts of Providence, R. I., had awarded her the boy when she secured a divorce from Theodore A. Morley, of No. 188 Grove Street, Montclair, last year. The husband insisted the child had been awarded to him and the Vice Chancellor told Mrs. Morley that proceedings in Rhode Island would be necessary.

Mrs. Morley stated that after the divorce proceedings she went to California, leaving the baby with a friend. Morley, she asserted, took the baby and since then she has not been able to regain possession of the boy.

Morley presented to the court letters purported to have been written by Mrs. Morley promising him custody of the child if he did not contest the divorce.

CLUB WOMEN HEAR MOVIE ARGUMENTS

Final Action by Convention Is Expected by To-Morrow.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., June 28.—Motion pictures had the stage at today's sessions of the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Representatives of producers, exhibitors and censors spoke and teachers and women club members led discussions. To-night Will H. Hays, President of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors will talk on "Upbuilding the Nation's Life Through Motion Pictures."

The speeches have brought to a focus the controversy between advocates and opponents of censorship and between those disagreed upon means of co-operation between the federation and the motion picture industry. Final action by the convention is expected to-morrow.

CITY DENIED PERMISSION TO INSPECT GAS PLANT

Corporation Counsel Says He'll Appeal Brooklyn Decision. Application of the City of New York, through Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph P. Morrissey, to inspect and make a survey of the plant of the New York and Richmond Gas Company was denied to-day by B. Meredith Langstaff, special examiner of the Public Service Commission, before whom the gas company renewed its application for an increase in gas rates. Mr. Morrissey took exception to the ruling of the Examiner and declared he would appeal to the courts for redress. Mr. Langstaff explained that if the city's representatives would peruse the records and reports of the gas company on file with the Public Service Commission all the information desired could be obtained.

Humorist Statue Smuggled Into Louvre Gallery

Plaster Cast of "Mayor of Montmartre" Grins at Venus de Milo.

PARIS, June 28 (Associated Press).—For the first time since the Louvre Palace was converted into an art gallery a living artist has succeeded in getting one of his works into its collection, the first condition of entry to which is that the artist be dead.

For five long days a plaster statue of M. Dupasout, the so-called Mayor of the "free commune of Montmartre," made for the Humorists' Salon, has stood on a pedestal in one of the main galleries, looking with a malicious smile at the Venus de Milo. Although the statue has apparently escaped the sharp eyes of the guardians or else satisfied their artistic conceptions of what should belong in the Louvre, it has mystified many American tourists who have been unable to identify it in their catalogues.

That it belongs among the statues of antiquity is indicated by the Latin inscription on its base, though it wears a battered stovepipe hat and a frock coat of Twentieth Century cut. The practical jokers who smuggled the statue into the Louvre expect to gain as much fame as the man who, in 1911, made away with Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa," and are said to be planning to emulate his exploit by smuggling out their statue.

TAKE GIRL ABROAD TO END ROMANCE

Miss Vera Stock's Parents Object to Her College Engagement.

(Special to The Evening World.)

CHICAGO, June 28.—While Rhenish castles and Viennese orchestras make Miss Vera Stock forget her American fiancé? This was the question that friends of the daughter of Frederick A. Stock, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, were asking to-day when they learned that Miss Stock had been suddenly whisked away to Europe by her parents.

The reason for the parental action is understood to be Ralph L. Hoy, a young lumberman of Brainardsville, N. Y. Mr. Hoy was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1921. At that time Miss Stock was a freshman. That was the start of the romance that culminated in the announcement of their engagement by Miss Stock recently.

Then objections to Mr. Hoy on the part of the girl's mother and father appeared. Now they have taken her on an extended sojourn to Germany and Austria in the hope that she will forget her romance.

The singer says her manager failed to fulfill eight of the concert dates called for in the contract. Two of Mme. Tarasova's concerts were at Town Hall and Carnegie Music Hall.

DRY LAW OFFENDER JAILED BY MISTAKE SET FREE BY JUDGE

"First Violators" Rush to Plead Guilty and Be Fined in Jersey.

Charles Pintal, a bartender, of No. 75 West Street, was released from Essex County, N. J., Jail to-day after serving three days of a three months' sentence for selling liquor. United States District Judge Ervin ordered him set free on the motion of Assistant United States Attorney J. M. Cashin, who said the charge against Pintal had inadvertently been entered as a second offense and the defendant had pleaded guilty thinking he was charged with a first offense. A fine of $25 was also assessed against Pintal.

Judge Ervin has departed from the custom of other Federal judges here of sending all Volstead law first offenders to jail for 14 days and has fined first offenders from $50 to $100, second offenders being sent to jail for three months.

This fact soon became known and the calendar of hundreds, perhaps thousands, of such cases now pending is being lightened through pleas of guilty being taken by defendants. Those charged with being first offenders would not plead guilty before, with certain jail sentences staring them in the face, and the cases accumulated much faster than the courts could try them, the result being the clogging of the court machinery.

"More have pleaded guilty during the past two days," said Mr. Cashin, "than pleaded since January 1. We hope to clear many more from the calendar during the week."

Mr. Cashin, who comes from Kingston, N. Y., succeeded Palmer Canfield in charge of the Federal District Attorney's prohibition enforcement staff.
